

The FCC works for the public. The public is depending on you not to approve BPL when it will disrupt emergency communications that protect the public. The supposed monetary and convenience advantages of BPL can be wiped out with a single emergency, say a hurricane, that leads to greater losses of life and property when hams can't talk to each other, either directly from BPL or indirectly from lost training due to BPL interference.